Bibliography Guidelines:
-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-=-

Document Structure:
- Background: What is the research question you are considering for your project
- Methodology: How did you find and pick the papers (Make sure to address all the points discussed in Paper Section)
- Short review (a paragraph, 5-120 sentences) of each paper
- How each paper relates to your project (e.g., describes the dataset, describes the method you will be using, important background for the work, etc.)
- The student can indicate which paper s/he is interested in focusing on (or indicate several preferences).

Selected Papers:
- At least 5 papers
- Venue: covered topics, academic/industrial, association(ACM/IEEE), ranking (see below)
- Authors: affiliation, expertise, number of publications, number of citations, h-index, etc.
- Citations: relationships to the papers cited by your selected paper and the ones that cite your paper
- Date: is it a recent paper? are there newer (and perhaps more relevant) papers that have improved on the result in this paper?
- Relevance: if you are interested in a method that is only briefly mentioned in the paper, keep in mind that there could be a paper that provides a more exhaustive description of the relevant method

Format and References:
- The preferred document format is a PDF produced from a LaTeX source or a Word or HTML document
- Regardless of the format, the bibliography must include complete and correct citations for the papers (e.g., see http://www.ieee.org/documents/ieeecitationref.pdf).
- Pay attention to the correctness and completeness of references
